HOW TO READ THIS BOOK:

Reading is easy. If you can read this, you will know how easy it is. There are just four simple things to remember and you will be able to read:

1) Don't drop the book.
2) Don't start reading before you open the book.
3) Don't shut your eyes when reading.
4) Don't cover the book with a rug or blanket while reading it.
5) There is no point five.

Once you have mastered the art of reading, like we did, a whole new world will open up before you. You will begin by being able to decipher basic word combinations such as Windjammer editorials, cheese labels and shoe box sizes. Then comes the world of the Public Library, where we work. Wow! Yey-hey!!!

AND NOW FOR SOMETHING COMPLETELY DIFFERENT

The theme above was chosen for absolutely no reason. The staff had chosen the theme "Mayfair Hits the Headlines." Due to lack of cooperation from Mr. Richard J. Munro, president of Time-Life Inc., we had a minor change in plans. Two hours before our deadline we decided on this theme (with some help from Monty Python). We hope you like it; we sure do.

"Boys and girls"
"Here"
"Mr. Hansen . . . Here"
Any student who has gone through the Hansen experience knows these words like "Sprichst du Deutsch."

Mr. Don Hansen has been with the school since the beginning of Mayfair time. His teaching finesse has mainly been concentrated on languages including German and Spanish, with an occasional dabbling into other social science fields.

However, anyone attending a Mayfair football game would recognize his melodic tones and side remarks as the "Voice of the Monsoons."

Although his authority in the classroom is unquestioned, his image in the eyes of his students is untarnished and positive. Present and former students alike, rate him high on their list of teachers to be remembered.

In his free time, he enjoys his "home-away-from-home" in Mexico with his wife and family. He lives in the local area and can often be seen cruising the streets on his beloved motorcycle.

With his pending retirement, the yearbook staff would like to dedicate the 1981-82 Tradewinds to Donald T. Hansen and say, "Hasta la vista-adios, Teacher and Friend."

How can you retire a classic?
Mayfair = Hansen

The Kidnapping

It was a foggy night. I couldn't even see my hand in front of my face. Well, I could, but that doesn't really matter now does it. Do you care? I don't care. Does anybody care? My mission was to photograph twenty kidnappings in one night. I was lucky enough to run into a group of people who happened to be kidnapping twenty young women. The women were part of a dangerous group called "The Homecoming Semi-Finalists." It was a dangerous assignment, but I chose to go anyway.

After the 20 Homecoming semifinalists were kidnapped, the annual two weeks' activities began. The first week's events consisted of games. The following week was an exciting one for everybody involved. Floats were being built, the football team was preparing for the game, the five finalists were selected, the band and drill team rehearsed for the parade and the pepsters polished up their routines.

On Friday, the finalists gave their speeches. The following afternoon the Homecoming parade strutted down South Street from Mayfair Park to school. Later that evening, during halftime, the princesses circled the field on their elegant cars; then former ASB president Tod Burnett crowned Lorraine Olivas our 1981-82 Homecoming Queen.

The year in dances.

This year's new fad in dancing was "the slam." The object was to see how many times they could hit each other during one song. Sounds like fun, doesn't it?

Some of the popular bands this year were Oingo Boingo, Adam and the Ants and Freddie Fender. They had such popular songs as "I'm on the Outside," "Stand and Deliver," and "Spongetta Falls in Love."

The dances were going hot and heavy at the beginning of the year, but the cancellation of the Winter Formal was a disappointment to many.

What A Disaster!

Drama department students staged the annual Disaster Drill on October 22. Mrs. Dorothy Rutherford, the school nurse, coordinated the drill for the benefit of Woodruff Gables and Bellwood General hospitals and the volunteer group REACT. "Injured" bodies covered the north parking lot area and the more severe "casualties" were taken by ambulance to be admitted to the two hospitals. The "victims" in a more stable condition were later attended to. Concerned citizens that witnessed the apparent disaster, a gas main explosion, commented on the realism of the project.

Penny-Ante drive brings in the pennies

Once again, Mayfair participated in the United Crusade Fund Drive. Each year the ASB cabinet selects Penny-Ante couples to collect money for the drive. Every class except the freshmen participated. There was also quite a bit of help from the seventh and eighth grade students.

Other people besides the couples that volunteered were: Mike Cope, Brad Hayden, Dave Roberts, Rondi Zipperman, Debbie Cooley and Robert Fecarotta.

The total amount collected came to $200.27. The money will be distributed to help United Crusade groups and organizations.

Oh, No, Is It For Me?

As I sit at my desk working on my assignment, I hear the door open. A group of girls walks in, but I think nothing of it. Then I hear my name mentioned and the teacher points toward me. The girls, dressed in red and white, walk over and stand around me. As they begin to sing, one of them sits on my lap. She rubs glitter in my hair and pinches my cheeks, making me feel very embarrassed. Then I wonder, as they finish the song, who could have sent it to me. Before they leave, they all kiss me on the cheek, making me feel more embarrassed than I am already. As I read to see who it is from, the door opens again and I think: Oh, no, is it for me?

POEM

Poets speak enigmatically and straightforward;
Perhaps their limited brilliance causes obesities in the non-corpulent.
And although poets are ignorant geniuses, they musn't use understanding to communicate their understatement; nonetheless, albeit, although stupidity is contageous among immortals, impressions come quickly and speedily to the poor.
Shoes run quickly across the greasy ceiling, the scuffing causing frictionless rubber molecules to accept the travelings of tomorrow.
Fountains of fiber are pleasant excepting the unfun ones.
Ultimatums break insecurely upon the block with axes falling inconsistently, spattering a mucus ladden copper unbiased substance possessing infinite viscosity flowing upwards.

New program helps beautify Mayfair's campus

Integration of a different kind happened at Mayfair this year. Eighteen students from Selaco High School, a school for the deaf, took an R.O.P. class in landscaping. They came here for snack, third and fourth periods, and left right after lunch. This class was for the entire second semester. The students were accompanied by their teachers and an aide.

Mrs. Carolyn Fisher, the R.O.P. director, was very excited about his class. She said, "This class will offer the students a wonderful job opportunity. It's something where they won't have to deal with the problem of communication so much." Mr. Smyth, the landscaping instructor, felt it was going to be a joint learning experience. He hoped to learn sign language.

While Mrs. Fisher was signing up a Selaco student, a boy asked his teacher if we (the students at Mayfair), hear.

Dear Friends,

When I first applied for the AFS exchange program, my friends asked me why I would rather spend my last year of high school away from my friends. I told them that the things I would experience here would be worth more than I could experience in my country. Indeed, I was right. Here I had the chance to do many things which are not feasible to do if I had stayed home. I enjoyed playing girls' varsity tennis, varsity basketball, and participating in Homecoming. These were all great and new experiences for me.

Thank you very much for making me feel so welcome.

Love,

Fulvia

Dear Friends,

I'm glad I could spend my AFS year at Mayfair. Going to Mayfair is one of the ways that I learned how the American culture really is. This country is different of what other people think. You are very friendly people and I like the way that you are involved in many social things. I enjoyed school, playing sports, and participating in the AFS and Palefire clubs. I lived with the Scott family, who made me feel right at home. They did everything that was possible to make me have a nice experience, going many different places and meeting a lot of people. The only thing I can say is that I had a nice experience and I thank all of you for being my friend.

Sincerely,

Walter

Palefire = Big brothers, sisters

Palefire is the Big Brother — Big Sister program at Mayfair. Mayfair students give friendship to children that may not have many friends. They offer a good role model that the children may not be getting elsewhere. Palefire provides its service through group recreational activities planned by the advisor Doug Spohn.

The activities this year have included a Halloween party, Christmas party, progressive dinner, whale watching, miniature golf, picnics, and trips to Disneyland, Olvera Street, Children's Museum and the L.A. Zoo. The younger kids in Palefire love the program and their parents have enthusiastically endorsed it.

At times, the big kids got away for their own enjoyment, doing things like mistletoe hunting, spending a winter weekend in a mountain cabin, and having a beach party or two.

Palefire is high school outreach of family service of Long Beach and is supported by Los Angeles County funds. It is a good example of the positive things going on at Mayfair.

It seems like Friday

We sat and ate our steaks in complete silence thinking about: THE GAME, as we went back to silently sit in the gym, only one thing was on our minds: THE GAME.

We went to get our psyching up from Coach Driggs, and then off to: THE GAME. Once we reached the stadium we proceeded to the locker room for final preparations. When that was over and we neared the field, we saw the lineup of cheerleaders holding up their painted signs. As we raced toward the signs we wanted to rip them to shreds as if they were the opposing team. We grouped together for our chant, then off we were to fight the battle.

This was the weekly drill the football players went through. This, of course, followed a day of hugging cheerleaders and exchanging gifts with them. School? Well, there was that, too.

Varsity had what it took to make it to CIF

The girls' varsity tennis team followed a precedent set by previous Mayfair teams in CIF play .. the team went undefeated in League play and went to quarter finals by beating Sante Fe and Brawley to end up losing to La Serna 8 — 10. The team got this far in a rather strange way. One player said, "We constantly ate and acted hyper." The team was headed by what many players called "an excellent coach," Mrs. Pat Young.

Girl Athlete of Year

The title of Athlete of the Year has been bestowed upon DEBBIE DEL ROSARIO for her exceptional accomplishments as an athlete.

Her talents in the athletic field extend to many different areas. As a freshman, Debbie's athletic career began on the track and cross country teams. Throughout her junior and senior years at Mayfair, Debbie continued track and played volleyball, varsity basketball and softball.

While participating in sports, she has managed to maintain a 3.33 grade point average. She also was a member of NHS as a sophomore and as a junior, Sorellas. She has been on the honor roll for three years.

Debbie's accomplishments and athletic abilities will serve as an example to future women athletes.

Boy Athlete of Year

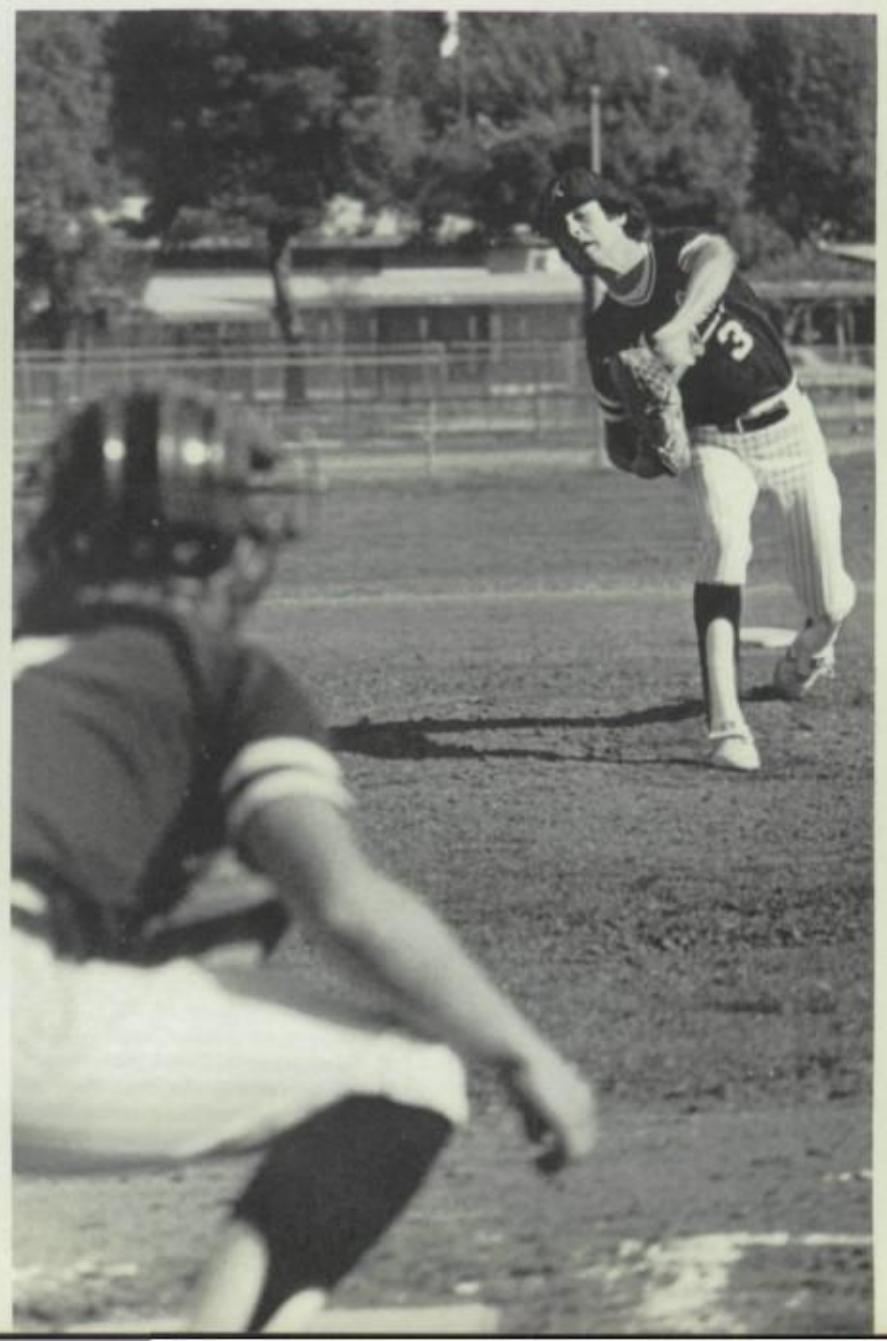
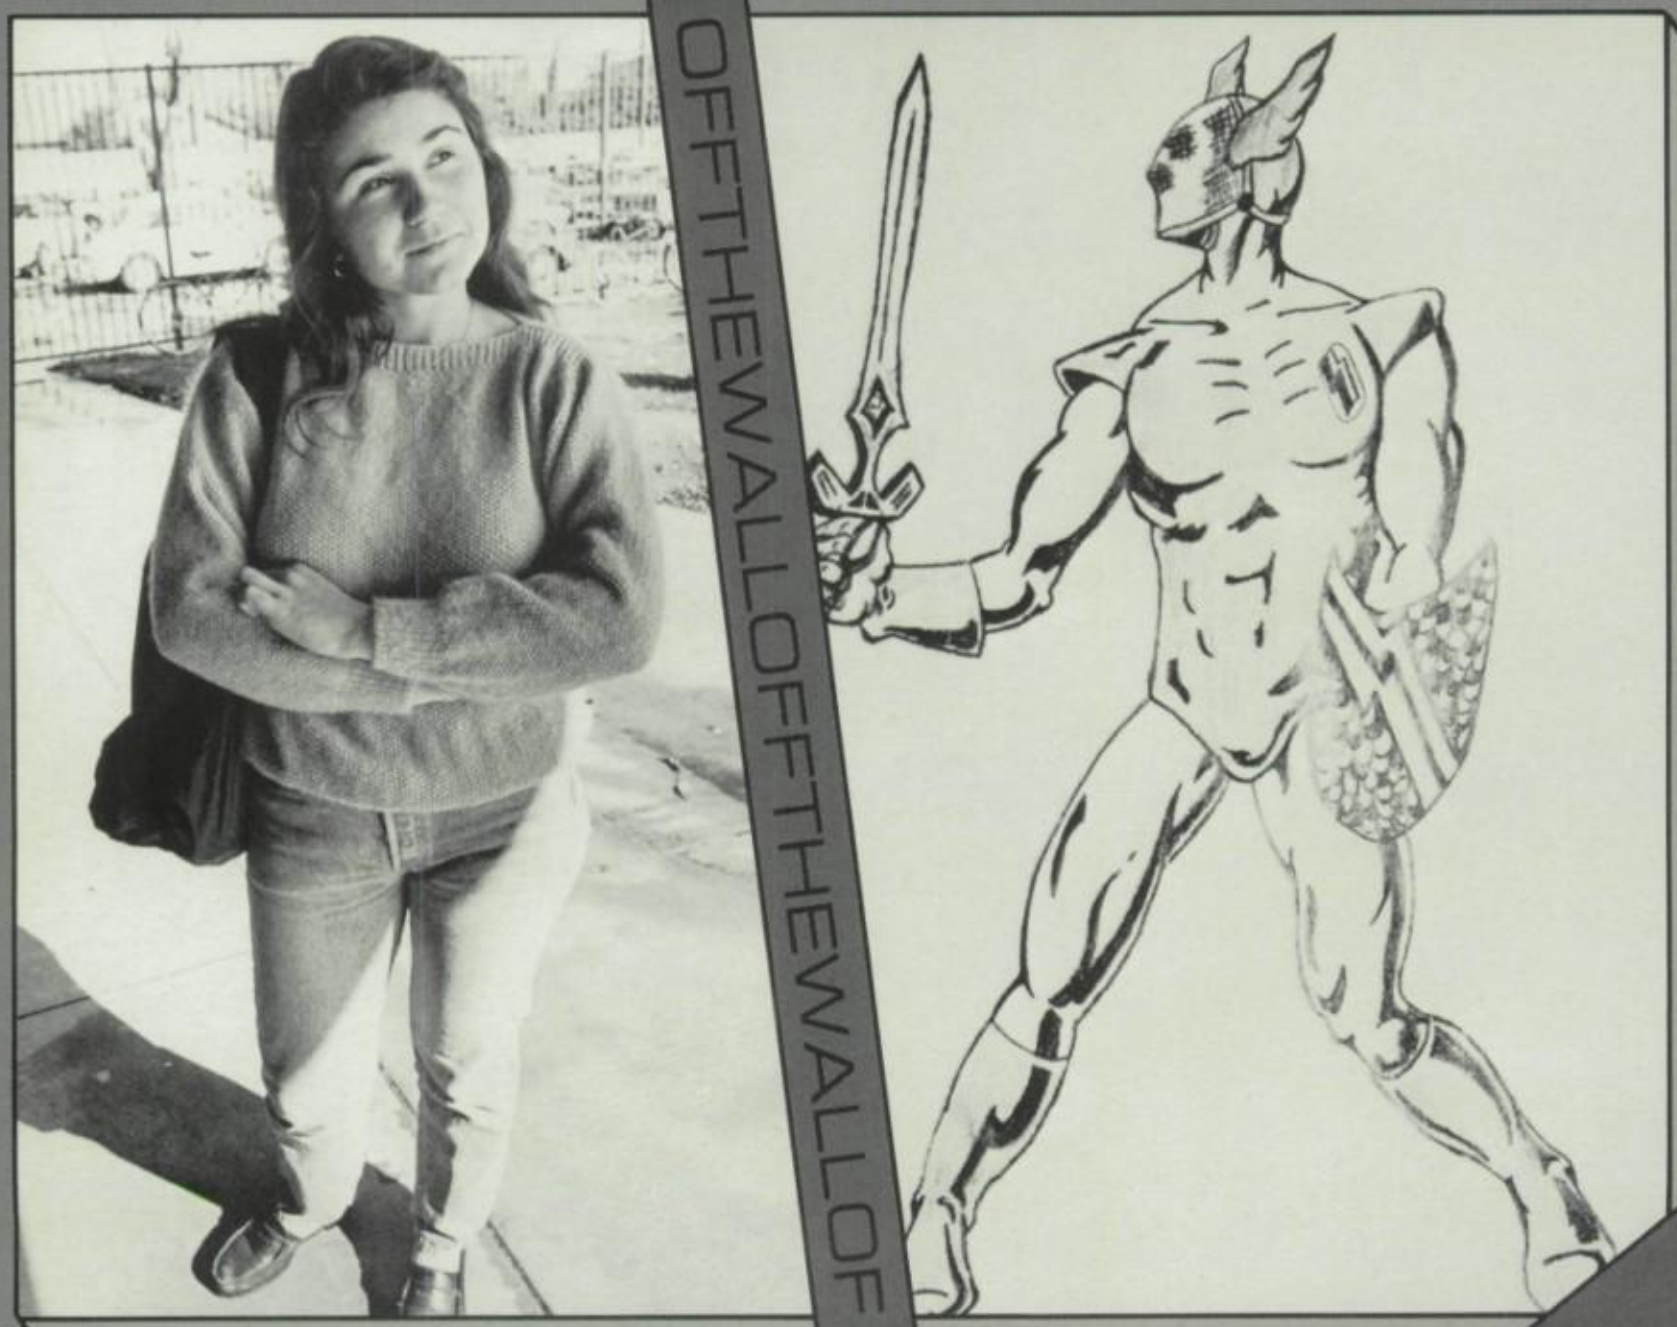
In recognition of his athletic excellence, the honor of the Athlete of the Year Award has been given to DION BECK. He has displayed the sportsmanship and leadership needed to represent Mayfair with this fine honor.

His athletic career initially began as a freshman and carried on throughout his four years at Mayfair. He was on the basketball team and JV baseball team during his earlier years. As his talents developed and his motivation increased, Dion went on to letter in both varsity football and baseball.

Aside from school, other organizations honored Dion by making him a part of the second All-League Team in baseball as a junior. This was followed his senior year by his participation on the first All-League Team in football and the All-South Coast second team.

His accomplishments have and will continue to inspire many younger athletes in Mayfair's future athletic program.





OFFTHEWALLOFFTHEWALLOF

OFF THE WALL EXPLANATION

The "Off The Wall" section of this book was devised in the scheming minds of the editors. The section came about for many reasons: to show the artistic abilities of some of the students at Mayfair; to show the different fashions being worn on campus; and to show what the many different fads were this year. It also came about to let people know what made the news this year and to show what movies, television shows and musical groups were popular. But the main reason the section was thought up was to make our book a little different from others, and to show that all things are completely different when you look at them from our point of view.

Valencia ignites hidden talent

The art department at Mayfair has proved to have some very gifted students, as shown by these pictures. Ms. Ricki Valencia, Mayfair's newest art teacher, has chosen these drawings as some of the best turned in by her students. The artists range from seventh through twelfth graders, and many of the pictures have placed in local art contests. We feel these students deserve to have their drawings showcased in our "Gallery '82."

GALLERY 82

We decided to put a photo gallery in our "Off The Wall" section to show the skills of some of the photographers on the yearbook staff. Just like the art gallery, these pages show the artistic abilities of some of our students. Like every other picture in this book, these photographs, were developed and printed in each of the individual photographer's own homes.

Old and new show up in fashion

On the Mayfair campus, our flair for fashion never fades. However, everyone dresses in his / her different style. The change in fashions have included a little of both old and new.

In the '60's, miniskirts were the rage. Now in '82, minis are back and they're more popular than ever. Minis now come in many styles, and the teaming of miniskirts and tights proved to be a winning combination.

The military had a big influence on the styles of clothes in '82. Sailor tops, when paired with white pants, produced a nautical look that was extremely popular. Sailor hats, headbands, and other accessories completed the look. Military-influenced camouflage and khaki coordinates were also very popular.

The look of the '50's included button-down shirts, straight-leg pants, pullover sweaters and cardigans. All of these were combined in '82 to form the Preppy look. Also included in the Preppy wardrobe were plaid pants, Izod shirts, and penny loafers. This combination of Eastern prep school and '50's styles was worn by many people on the Mayfair campus. It gave these people a completely different look, without going to the extremes of Punk or New Wave.

The look of the frontier days was brought back in an updated form. Full denim skirts with petticoats were matched with big, ruffled prairie tops and boots to achieve the look of the Old West. This femininely western way of dressing was extremely popular in '82.

When it came to sweats, bright, brilliant colors were the key. Sweats no longer come in only blue and grey. They could be found in any color of the rainbow. Sweats became more fashionable and could be worn almost anywhere. And when they were worn with leg warmers, the look seemed unbeatable.

However, leg warmers weren't only being worn with sweats. They were being teamed with everything, including jeans, shorts, and even dresses. Leg warmers were definitely the biggest fad in fashion this season.

Designer jeans have been considered "in" for many years, and this year was no exception; Jeans have been so popular because of their versatility. They were paired with everything from sweaters and lace for a dressy look, to sweatshirts and tennis shoes for more casual times.

No matter what time of year, the surfers on the Mayfair campus were always dressed their way. Rain or shine, they wore shorts, T-shirts, and tennis shoes. And when the cold weather was gone, most of the T-shirts were too.

Many famous designers, Calvin Klein, Yves Saint Laurent and Oscar de la Renta, to name a few, come along with new fashions every year. This year was no exception. These creations, many of which were extremely outrageous, were the fashions everyone wanted, but ever-present inflation made them very expensive.

So for now, we'll just have to keep wearing our own styles, at least until next year.

2. The old days return. Robin Davis shows off the traditional prairie top.

Unlike years before, we had a difficult time finding things that would be considered "in." These pictures show a few of the fads this year that were very popular. The Rubik's Cube started a whole line of puzzles in all shapes and sizes, including spheres, pyramids, and chains, which also led to the same thing in key chains. Personal cassette players were also very popular this year. They made it easy for people to listen to their favorite music while running, riding bikes, skiing, or just shutting out the world entirely. Sunglasses were another favorite of the "in" crowd. Everywhere you looked, people were wearing sunglasses, either inexpensive imitations or costly Vuarnets for the lucky few. Of course, the ultra cool glasses were nothing without peeper keepers. Although only a few people at Mayfair took the preppy look to it's limits, people around the campus could be seen wearing alligator and Polo shirts and sweaters, button-down Madras shirts and Topsiders. Even a few copies of the Preppy Handbook were seen floating around school. Like years before, going to see your favorite rock group in concert was a favorite pastime. The Police, like many other bands, came out with a highly acclaimed album and followed it with a world tour. As you can see, we have only touched a few bases. Looking at fads throughout the year, these were the things that stood out in our minds.

A Political Year That Should Not Be Forgotten

The year's national and international happenings were very spread out. Politicians and politics, presidential aides and financial aids, welfare and untimely farewells played a part in forming the year's news.

You name it and it probably happened in the political arena. Ronald Reagan became famous and infamous for his budget slashings and war-building antics. He helped support the unstable El Salvador government, which made him a hero and a goat in the eyes of America. His conservativism seemed to sweep through the nation, helping businesses and putting the weight of once federally-supported programs on the shoulders of the states. This was referred to as "New Federalism." Whether he was liked or not, the President made the headlines constantly.

On the international scene, tragedy seemed to overcome the news. During a military parade in Egypt, a group of Muslim fundamentalists posing as soldiers jumped from a militia truck and ran towards the Presidential box, spraying it with bullets. When the smoke cleared, there were 28 wounded and five dead, including President Anwar Sadat. Shock was the mildest term used for this senseless murder. On the darkest side of human nature was the mad President of Libya, Muammar Gaddafi. He was actually glad to see Sadat killed. Although most of the news from his country, if not all of it, was bad, it was still news.

When things stated looking good for Lech Walesa and his labor union, solidarity, they took a 180 degree turnabout. General Wojciach Jaruzelski decided to put his foot down, also known as "Martial Law." These are a few examples of martial law: no freedom of the press, no public gatherings, including strikes, sports, and artistic events; mail, telephone calls, and other forms of communication are subject to censorship, and there is no private sale of gasoline. Even though the Poles are suppressed, there is always a hope for freedom.

Another event that put the U.S. back into the space race was the launching of the space shuttle, Colombia. The world saw the first reusable spaceship launch from a vertical position. The ship then went into space for 60 orbits and landed at Edwards Air Force Base in he Mojave Desert. Coming down, it looked like a regular oversized plane. The shuttle, like the Apollo program, should bring in new technology and a new challenge to seek out the final frontier.

There were also some other news items which caught world's attention. The death of Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan stunned Israel. We saw Europe strike out against the storing of American and Russian nuclear weapons. In Italy, American General James Dozier was kidnapped and held by the Red Brigade, a strong underground power. After weeks of nervous waiting Italian police found the General. These were some of the bigger happenings on the international scene.

On the American scene, things in the news ranged from women gaining and losing ground to the economy going for a roller-coaster ride. While Sandra Day O'Connor was showing women can get into high places, namely the Supreme Court, the ERA fell on its face due to the lack of state ratification of the amendment. When buying a car, it seemed as though Ford and Chrysler couldn't give us enough money in rebates. Even with the rebates and a free maintenance plans the auto industry still faced mass lay-offs and indefinite plant closings. These lay-offs came at a time of extremely high unemployment and cost of living rates.

These political events were just a few of the more important things that happened in '81 and '82.

Things to do and happenings too

This year, like years before, there were many things that people were doing all over the country. Video games were the big thing with people of all ages, with Atari being the leader of the video game companies. Anywhere these games could be found, people were seen dropping quarters into Pac Man, Defender and Centipede, just a few of the more popular arcade games. However, arcades weren't the only place these games could be found. Video game sales went up drastically this year, as more and more people were buying these games for home use on their own television sets. This saved these people a fortune in quarters.

A fitness craze swept over the nation this year, and almost everyone got involved in some kind of exercise. Running was the fitness fad of the '70's, but people began to find many faults in running. Aerobic dancing, swimming and walking are the exercises of the '80's. These exercises have become extremely popular this year, mainly because they got you in shape, but also because they're fun. Even businessmen were getting into shape in 1982. Many executives could be found in gyms during their lunch breaks, working out for an hour a day. Being physically fit was definitely "in" in '82.

It was a year of gains and losses in the television industry. The producers of the movie "Airplane" tried T.V., this time with "Police Squad", and two hit movies from last year, "Private Benjamin" and "9 to 5" became series. "General Hopsital" is still the number one daytime soap opera, even though Genie Francis, one of the most popular cast members, left the show. "Dallas," the first official prime time soap opera, has led to many new prime time soaps, including "Dynasty," "Falcon Crest," and "King's Crossing." Only time will tell if any of them become hits. Late night comedy shows, like "Saturday Night Live" and "Fridays" are still extremely popular with teenagers, and Sunday afternoons are now spiced up with "Elvira, Mistress of the Dark" (and Mistress of Bad Movies.). The T.V. industry gained many new shows, but it also experienced some losses this year. CBS has announced that the comedy classic "M*A*S*H*" will be ending this season, and ABC has cancelled a long time favorite, "Barney Miller." These shows will surely be missed by their devoted viewers.

There was great variety in the movies of '82. "Raiders of the Lost Ark" was the biggest money-maker of the year; acting greats Katherine Hepburn and Henry Fonda were teamed for the first time in "On Golden Pond"; Frances Ford Coppola tried his first musical, "One From The Heart;" and prehistoric times were dealt with seriously in "Quest For Fire." Other popular movies this year included "Chariots of Fire," "Arthur," "Mommie Dearest," and Warren Beatty's epic, "Reds."

In the music world, the big news this year was the Rolling Stones concert. The two-night show drew 180,000 dedicated Stones' fans. Other rock performers, including the Police, Journey, AC/DC, and Foreigner also had successful concert tours. Some other popular performers in the rock industry included the J. Geils Band, Ozzy Osbourne, Joan Jett and the Blackhearts, and don't forget Olivia Newton-John, who had everyone getting "Physical." New Wave has become very popular this year, Oingo Boingo went from playing small clubs to being the opening act for The Police. The Go-Go's were the first all-girl band to be taken seriously, and they proved it when their first album went number one. And like the year before, DEVO and Elvis Costello were still favorites of the New Wave scene.

And unfortunately, a year will not go by without the deaths of some famous people. Natalie Wood and John Belushi both met with tragic, untimely deaths. Edith Head, who won a record eight Academy Awards for costume design, died at age 81. William Holden, Jack Albertson, and Paul Lynde, all well known in the film industry, also passed away this year. And Walter Knott, who founded Knott's Berry Farm as a fruit stand in 1940, died at 91.

News Briefs

Mrs. Virginia Felknor, a girls' physical education and health teacher at Mayfair, is retiring at the end of this year. Mrs. Felknor has worked in the Bellflower School since September, 1954. She has taught at Mayfair for two years, and previously she taught at Washington Junior High School and Bellflower High School. While filling her position will be easy, filling her void will be extremely difficult.

The name Hersek is definitely well known at Mayfair. All Herseks are involved in many activities and they are all very popular with people on campus.

Mr. Hersek, a History and Family Living teacher, is also advisor of the AFS and a member of the School Improvement Board. Mr. Hersek is married and his wife is also a teacher in the Bellflower district. He is definitely one of the most involved teachers at Mayfair.

Through the AFS program, the Herseks got a chance to host a student from another country. This year's hostee was Fulvia Castelli from Como, Italy. Fulvia stayed with the Herseks since August and was treated like one of the family. Fulvia is 18 and will graduate with Mayfair's Class of '82.

The Herseks also have four children of their own. Their oldest son, Mike, 19, left last summer for Israel through AFS program. He will be returning this summer after a year's stay. Tracy, 18, is Mayfair's Drum Major this year. She has been involved in AFS, Marching Band and Jazz Band throughout her years at Mayfair. Jeanine, 16, is also in the Marching Band, a member of the Varsity Yell, and has been on the Windjammer staff, and Paul, the Hersek's youngest son, is 15. He is a member of the Marchng Band and is also involved in AFS. The Herseks have surely proved themselves to be one of the most dedicated families at Mayfair.

Through the AFS program, Lesli Holt, an '81 graduate of Mayfair, visited Argentina. Lesli stayed in the small town of General Cabrera. Her host family in Argentina were Mr. and Mrs. Smutt and their daughter Laura. After a three-month stay, Lesli returned to her family in America. Then in December 1981, her AFS sister Laura Smutt came to California and stayed with Lesli and her family. Laura returned home to Argentina in March, 1982.

There were several activities that we'd like to mention that we almost forgot because, as you can tell, it's at the end of this book.

Raising money was a favorite activity of many groups. A car wash sponsored by the Ski Club helped to raise money for the club. Mrs. Swiek and several club members borrowed the facilities of the Mobile gas station on South St. and Bellflower Blvd. to wash away the grime on cars of Lakewood residents. Another activity that raised money was the Adelphi rummage sale. Club members brought in books, magazines and other merchandise that sold well.

The Drill Team also got involved in making money. Occasionally, a Drill Team member would come up and ask if you would like to buy a fuzzy little stick-on creature or black market candy.

Around Valentine's day, cheerleaders could be caught trying to sell buttons that said "I Love" followed by your favorite person's name or activities on it. These buttons went over so well that they could be seen all around campus.

Dear Class of '82,

I just want you to know you mean so much to me. You've helped me find a special outlook on life by sharing yourselves. You have shared your good times and bad, your happiness and smiles, your loneliness and tears.

You've taught me so much by the way you get as much fun as possible from every moment: the way you accept responsibility with lighthearted optimism; the expectation that every application is a job offer; the way you ride out serious storms and use umbrellas only for decoration.

You mean so much to me that I feel I owe you more than I can repay. If there is a way to hold, help, provide and or encourage, just come to my door and let me tell you that you mean so much.

With best wishes,
Jean Peterson

To the Class of 1982,

With the ending of your four years at Mayfair High you can look back on all your achievements and experiences.

You have a wonderful future before you. Enjoy it to the fullest, but make the most of it at the same time.

Good Luck and the best to all of you!

Mrs. Millie Haygood

To Whom It May or May Not Concer,

The yearbook is finished! (Thank God!). And I know you surely loved it, and don't call me Shirley.

Thank you to:
Mrs. Sweick — For Identifying all those unknowns.
Bill Milne — For getting Mrs. Selman off our backs.
My Mom — For letting us ruin her house for six months, supplying ice tea and coffee at deadline time, putting up with our lewd comments and being an all-around swell kind of a gal.
John Bruins — For helping write unwanted copy, supplying a hole punch and taking me to the post office at the last minute.
Betty Hoyer — For supplying a typewriter with a dropping "A" and a stuck "T."
Jerry Anker — For being a half year "yearbook buddy" and taking us on a tour of Lakewood and Cerritos.
Aaron's Dad — For giving Aaron the car to come over and work.
Albert & James Photography — For supplying two thousand sheets of paper and three hundred rolls of film.
Todd Mohn & Greg Ayers — For doing the neon letters at the last minute to fill space.
Ms. Valencia — For letting us copy the art work.
Mrs. Selman — For taking pages at the last minute, putting up with my imaginative excuses and letting us get away with creative murder.
